European Commission

In March 2025, the Commission proposed the 'Union of Skills' as the guiding strategy for improving the quality of education, training and lifelong learning. Key strands of the Union of Skills are building basic skills, upskilling and reskilling, circulating skills across the EU and attracting, developing and retaining talent.

A total of 23 initiatives are part of the Union of Skills-strategy like the 'EU strategy for vocational education and training' to make VET more attractive, innovative, and inclusive, a new European VET diploma supporting the free movement of learners and workers and strengthening Centres of Vocational Excellence

Part of the Union of Skills, the STEM Education Strategic Plan also aims to improve STEM in IVET and CVET as VET graduates represent almost half of all STEM graduates. That includes proposing new 2030 EU-level STEM targets also regarding VET, promote future-oriented STEM curricula in VET schools, VET reskilling and upskilling, pilot STEM education centres for VET schools and exchange good practices and foster mutual learning on attracting and supporting girls and women in STEM apprenticeships.

Austrian Federal Economic Chamber on the federal government's skilled labour strategy: „Austria must actively shape growth opportunities by focus on qualification and upgrading of dual training as apprenticeships are the most cost-effective option for the public sector.“ The federal government's skilled labour strategy should be based on three pillars – a qualification offensive, the upgrading of apprenticeships and vocational training, and better conditions for international skilled workers.
